Background – Dig Deep’s Kilimanjaro Climbs

Dig Deep is a charity based in Kenya and the UK which helps communities in Kenya to get access to clean drinking water and sanitation. To find out more about the charity see please our website.

One of the ways in which we raise funds for our water and sanitation projects is by offering students from the UK the opportunity to undertake a sponsored climb of Kilimanjaro. Since 2011 we have supported 1250 climbers in taking on the mountain. In doing this we are committed to ensuring our ground staff receive fair wages and treatment, and this approach has led to us being awarded ‘Partner for Responsible Travel’ status by the Kilimanjaro Porters’ Assistance Project (KPAP), the only UK charity to receive this award. Find out more about KPAP here.

In August each year we have approx. 200-300 people travelling to Tanzania to climb Kilimanjaro, the majority of whom are between the ages of 18 and 21. They are split into climb dates separated by 3 – 4 days with approx 30 climbers in each climb group. All of the climbs are organised and run by our local Tanzanian partners Trek 2 Kili and African Scenic Safaris.

To ensure the safety of these climbers we require an experienced doctor to accompany each group on their Kilimanjaro climb, working in combination with the Head Guide and their extensive climb support crew from our partner companies.

In addition, for approximately one week either before or after your group’s Kilimanjaro climb itself we also require an experienced doctor to be on call to offer a triage service comprising of: medical assessments and basic first aid treatment at the hotel accommodation in Moshi (the town which is closest to Kilimanjaro) and/or at the Mountain Gates in the event of a medical incident. Examples of injuries/illnesses you may be required to treat or diagnose are strains/sprains, blisters, cuts/abrasions, insect bites, diarrhoea/upset stomach, dehydration/heat stroke, altitude sickness.

Should climbers require further specialist treatment they will be referred to the local Kilimanjaro Christian Medical Centre (KCMC) hospital following yours and/or the Head Guide’s advice.

We may also ask you to provide supplementary medical advice regarding altitude to climbers before they undertake the climb as part of the Head Guide’s health and safety briefing.
Primary requirements of the role

Accompanying groups on the mountain offering medical support as required

You will be joining the experienced climb support crew of one of our partner climb companies African Scenic Safaris or Trek 2 Kili acting as an expedition medic. The Head Guide(s) will have the ultimate responsibility for each member of the climb group but you will be there to assist and support from a medical standpoint including; assessing and treating any medical complaints or incidents from members of the climb group; administering/prescribing any medication; offering first aid to members of the climb group where required.

You will be provided with your own private tent at camp so all climbers are able to discuss/report any medical illness/injury to you in private if required.

During the trek you will have a dedicated porter accompanying you who will be carrying the medical kit. You will be in constant communication with the Head Guide so that you can assist with any medical incident.

Offering medical support to individuals/groups off the mountain

Aside from having an experienced doctor accompanying each group on the mountain, we also require a qualified doctor to be present in Moshi at all times to assist with any students who descend earlier than the rest of their group.

Depending on your group allocation, you will therefore be required to be present in Moshi for approx 6 days before or after your group’s Kilimanjaro climb in order to cover when other groups are on the mountain. During these days you will be required to travel to treat students as and when:

- One or more students have a medical complaint that means they have to descend from the mountain before the rest of the group. In this case you will be required to meet them at the appropriate mountain gate to assess and treat. Serious medical cases will be evacuated directly to the KCMC hospital at the discretion of the Head Guide and/or Doctor for their group and you will not be responsible for their treatment.

- One or more students have a medical complaint when at their hotel. In this case you will be required to travel to meet them at their Moshi accommodation.

Your role will be to examine any injuries or medical complaints that they have, to assess whether treatment is required, provide treatment immediately at the hotel or gate if possible, or if necessary refer them to the KCMC hospital for further treatment.

If any of the students have to visit the KCMC hospital for treatment you will be required to accompany them to be checked in. This is the case either if they are attending the hospital on your recommendation or have been sent there before being examined by you. Your role will be to help them get the most appropriate treatment.

Pre climb medical screening and briefings

Prior to all participants travelling to Tanzania to take on the mountain we request that everyone completes a pre-departure medical form to declare any pre-existing medical conditions. We will require you to assess these medical forms and discuss any relevant pre-existing medical conditions with these individuals to ensure that a) they are fit to climb and b) that you and/or the climb support crew are aware of how best to support/treat each individual when on the challenge.

On the evening before each group begins climbing you will give a 10 minute presentation on the causes, symptoms and treatment of altitude sickness. This will form part of and complement the pre-climb health and safety briefing given by the Head Guide. The purpose will be to prepare the climbers for the symptoms they will feel and to reiterate the importance of relaying these symptoms to you and the guides.

Qualifications and experience required

- You must be a fully qualified doctor in the UK.
- Experience of practicing medicine in remote/challenging environments with experience/qualifications in altitude medicine is preferred.
- Experience working internationally is preferred.
- You must have an excellent manner with patients. The majority of the students are young adults who have never left the UK or Western Europe before and so are often suffering from a degree of culture shock. In addition, many of them are new to mountaineering, and so climbing Kilimanjaro is often the biggest physical challenge that they have ever taken on. Due to these factors, it is common for them to suffer from anxiety. A key part of this role is therefore reassuring them during assessment and treatment.

Expenses – what is and is not covered for this role

Dig Deep will cover:

- Your Kilimanjaro climb costs
- Subsidised international flights to the value of £600 (we offer this subsidy rather than booking your flights directly to allow you to be flexible in choosing where to fly from, whether to extend your stay in Tanzania etc.)

- Costs of medical kit

What you will need to cover:

Unlocking opportunity for Kenya’s poorest residents.
